

CENTENNIAL ANNOUNCES NEW CHIEF ACCOUNTING OFFICER

Kristi Reavis Appointed to Lead Centennial's Accounting and Finance Department

DALLAS, TEXAS, January 13, 2020 – Centennial, a real estate investment firm with a national portfolio of shopping, dining, entertainment, and mixed-use destinations, announced today the appointment of Kristi Reavis to the position of Chief Accounting Officer.

In this role, Reavis will be responsible for all aspects of accounting and financial reporting including budgeting, forecasting, analysis, treasury, and vendors as well as overseeing cash flow projections and management. She will also serve as a key member of the executive team.

"We warmly welcome Kristi as a valued member of the Centennial leadership team," said Steven Levin, Centennial's CEO. "She complements our strong performance-oriented culture and we believe her impressive reputation for execution and achieving results makes her the right choice to lead our accounting and finance department."

Reavis joins Centennial from The Howard Hughes Corporation (NYSE: HHC), a publicly traded owner, manager and developer of commercial, residential and mixed-use real estate, where she held senior roles in financial reporting and accounting policy over the past 4 years. Prior to that, she was with Ernst & Young's assurance practice for over 13 years in the firm's real estate sector, including a 2-year stint in the Netherlands office.

Kristi holds an Masters of Science in Accounting from the University of Virginia and a Bachelors of Business Administration in Finance/Management Information Systems from Baylor University. She is a certified public accountant in the state of Texas and a member of the Urban Land Institute (ULI).
